THE SINKING OF THE MAJESTIC

This is one of the most remarkable photographs of the war, showing H.M.S. Majestic in the very act of sinking in the Dardanelles. The doomed vessel is seen bowing towards its spectators, with a marked heel to port. The men on board her can be seen assembling down her hull into the water. Small craft are rushing to the rescue, and in the distance are larger vessels. In the immediate foreground the crew of another British rescuing ship watch the great tragedy proceeding under their eyes, and one man has lifted his cap in salute. The German submarine responsible for the sinking has vanished.
